Media Curation #2

The person I've chosen is someone that is huge on the platform of Instagram, at least in my opinion. The reason why this profile speaks to me is because he inspires me on the idea of content creation, more so when it comes to photography and videography. Nonetheless, the person I chose is none other than Peter Mckinnon, who is known for photography and videography among Instagram and Youtube. Who also has a whopping, 3.2 million Instagram followers. The following link above goes to his page:

Now the reason I choose Peter Mckinnon's profile is because it speaks to me as a creator. As someone who's trying to progress within the business of Photography, Videography, and eventually Cinema, he speaks to me both on Youtube and Instagram as he always shows a different aspect of each which shows me how to do better in all those departments.

When it comes to his page, it shows me how much of an artist he is and how selective he is when it comes to posting his photos. An example would be Peter's post which I have linked below. What speaks to me the most about this post in particular is the big picture tone it sets when it comes to the photo. More so, it is a sight not everyone sees when traveling around the world to places like Iceland, which is where the post is linked to. When it comes to Peter Mckinnon's feed as a whole, I get the sensation of wanting to learn more from him and other creators like him. It goes to show what it is like being a creator.
